Mayor’s Message

Mayor Leanne Guier
Happy New Year!
This year is starting off with new faces on your city council. David Storaasli was sworn in on January 4th, and Council Member Walker submitted his resignation late December. Your new council member could be appointed by the council at our January 25th meeting. Please join me in welcoming them to the team.

We are looking forward to our new audio/video system installed in council chambers by mid March. This will allow council meetings to be streamed live for our community. The system will include hearing impaired devices as well. This has been a priority of the city for he past few years and we are very excited to have this up and running. Not only will this encourage more engagement from our community, we will save your tax payer dollars on transporting defendants from jail to our court. This can now be done with live video feed, via “port-a-court”.

Our community is made up some pretty incredible people. These people volunteer their time to help others in our community. We will be accepting nominations for our next Citizen of the Year. Who in your neighborhood would you like to recognize? What kind of amazing things is someone doing in our city that you would like others to know about? We will begin accepting nominations on February 15th and stop accepting at 5pm on March 4th. Our annual dinner will be held on March 19th in the gym. Please visit our website for more information, www.pacificwa.gov.

As always, I look forward to your comments and suggestions, lguier@ci.pacific.wa.us

Council Corner

Council Member Joshua Putnam
As I look back on my time on Pacific’s City Council, I remain proud of the strength of citizen-led government in good times and bad. A small-town city council is not a position anyone seeks for fame or money, it’s a place where people work to make Pacific a better place to live, work, and raise children. We’re all human and we all make mistakes, but working together, we’re smarter than any one of us alone.

Some of the greatest challenges for a small city like Pacific are those that involve many, and much larger, agencies. Flooding along the White River is a prime example. Pacific does not control the flow of the river, land use upstream or down, or even the management of the river within Pacific itself. With several feet of gravel raising the riverbed in Pacific, a modest storm today can push the river to heights that used to be considered a 500-year flood. Homes and businesses that were above the flood plain when built are now subject to flooding. The City Council can’t directly control any of the important decisions that affect flooding for these properties. The most Council can do directly is try to keep the city prepared for larger events, and update our development regulations for the realities of the river today.

Beyond that, council members, like their neighbors, are constituents of the agencies that make larger decisions about regional concerns such as the White River. Council may be able to identify issues that need attention, but only concerted efforts by Council and residents combined can command the attention of more-distant decision makers. Council needs your voice along with theirs to influence regional issues.

FINANCE
The Challenge Managers Have in Facilitating Committed Staff in the Municipal Workplace Environment.

Managers face a significant challenge in facilitating committed staff in the municipal workplace. The municipal environment is inherently unstable due to the consistent change of leadership, which includes the turnover of elected officials on a regular basis. However, the change of elected leadership does not necessarily equate to the change in staff.

The lack of continuity of managers due to the change in Mayors occurs too often. This facilitates an unstable work setting which is neither productive nor beneficial. Managers must learn to hire the right employees, and establish a healthy workplace environment promoting long-lasting commitments that the Mayor and Council (leadership) supports and facilitates.

Staying long term within any local government is essential because the more time the employee puts in, the more they learn about the City. More importantly, they comfortably know the “big picture” of doing things, and adapt better, more efficient ways in serving the Public as well as ensuring compliance with all the rules and regulations enforced by the many intergovernmental entities that play a prominent role in running a healthy local government (City, etc.). Making sure that a new employee desires to stay long term is crucial because employees are investments. An employee who chooses to be engaged in the work setting will benefit the organization, productivity, and ultimately customer satisfaction.

Winter Weather Preparedness

Forecasters at National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) are predicting warmer than normal winter temperatures and are of mixed opinion whether or not Western Washington will have some rain or a lot of rain this winter. With this level of uncertainty it is important for the City to pay close attention to the local weather forecasts. From these forecasts, the City makes decisions how to prepare and respond to local weather events.

Sometimes you may hear weather forecasters say that there is a winter storm “warning” or a flood “watch” in effect, but what exactly does that mean? In general, the difference can be described as follows:

WARNING: Danger is imminent or highly likely, time to take action

ADVISORY: Dangerous condition is likely, avoid danger area and stay informed

WATCH: Danger level not yet known, stay alert for more information

Knowing the meaning of these terms can help you, just as it does the City, prepare for different winter weather events.

Here are a few simple steps that can help you be better prepared for whatever Old Man Winter throws our way this season:

- Check the forecast at www.weather.gov and follow National Weather Services (NWS) on Twitter or Facebook. Check a local news station to make sure you have the latest weather news.
- At home: have an Emergency Preparedness Kit with a minimum of three days of food, water, and seven days of prescription medications.
- Make sure your cell phone is fully charged when a storm is approaching and also anytime you’re planning to leave the house. It could become your life-line should disaster strike.

Additional resources to help you become better prepared for winter weather and other emergency events can be found at:

Fenced In

Are you considering the construction of a new fence on your property? If so, following are the answers to some common questions regarding the construction of fences.

Do I need any permits to build a fence?
A building permit is only required for fences taller than 8 feet.

Where can my fence be located?
Your fence may be located anywhere on your property, with the exception of sensitive lands such as wetlands, steep slopes, streams, etc.

Can a fence be placed on a property line?
Yes, a fence may be placed on a property line. However, a fence may not extend into a neighbor’s property or into the public right-of-way. You should discuss your plans with your neighbors to avoid potential concerns or disputes regarding placement.

How tall can my fence be?

Interior Lots
For interior lots, wood fences may be 4 feet tall in front yards and 6 feet tall in side and rear yards (See Figure 1).

Corner Lots
For corner lots, additional requirements apply (See Figure 2). Solid fences must be setback 10 feet from the right-of-way (ROW) and be no more than 4 feet in height. Non-obstructing 4 foot high fences may be placed on the property line abutting the ROW. A 6 foot high fence is allowed outside of the required building setback from the right-of-way.

If you have any further questions regarding fences, please contact the Community Development Department at 253-929-1112 or Paula Wiech pwiech@ci.pacific.wa.us.

GREENLIGHT A VET

What is Greenlight A Vet?
It’s difficult to honor and show appreciation to America’s veterans, who are some of the nation’s bravest, hardest-working men and women when they’re back home and out of uniform. Greenlight A Vet is a campaign to establish visible support for our veterans by changing one light to green.

Change One Light to Green
In a visible location in your home or at your office, change one light to green. As a symbol of appreciation and support for our veterans, keep it glowing every day.

The Meaning of Green
Green is the color of growth, well-being, hope, and renewal. “Greenlight” is also a term commonly used to activate forward movement. The thoughtful action of changing a light to green is meant to start a conversation about the recognition of veterans, and send them forward as valued members of our communities.

PACIFIC
POLICE DEPARTMENT

Governor Jay Inslee proclaimed a state of emergency after heavy rainstorms caused flooding and landslides across much of Western Washington in December 2015. Here in Pacific, the White River flooded multiple areas, including White River Drive and Butte Avenue. At its peak, the water reached a height of approximately 4 feet.

Due to the flooding, the City of Pacific, Public Works Division and Police Department worked together to mitigate damages and injury. Despite numerous road closures along Butte Avenue however, the Police Department was called to this location a multitude of times to assist in the recovery of submerged vehicles. Passing a “Road Closed” sign could lead to a $136 infraction.

Turn around, don’t drown!
